Hi Sandra,

Thank you for your response to my e-mail but I think you may have misunderstood my reason for sending it.

We already have very clearly defined procedures regarding school work. Our workers are completely aware of these procedures and had followed them to the letter but, in addition, then contacted our three child protection workers.

Our child protection workers immediately met with the workers concerned and it was decided to make absolutely certain that the matter was being followed up by the appropriate authorities. This was done immediately.

Joseph and I were both under the impression from one of our meetings that we should contact you about child protection concerns until we have a link worker. If this is not the case please advise us and we can go directly to child protection committees in the future.

I was asked to send you an e-mail partly as a courtesy and partly in case there was anyone you thought we had missed.

I hope this is now a bit clearer and thanks again for your help.

Regards,
Irene.
